PETITION GRANTED FOR EXTRADITION OF THAW.

Based on Indictment Returned in New York County.

Prisoner's Attorneys to File Amendment to Habeas Corpus Request.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 8.—Governor Samuel D. Felker this morning granted the petition of the state of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw, charged with conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum at Matteawan. The case now goes into the United States courts.

A writ of habeas corpus was obtained by counsel for Thaw from United States District Court Judge Edgar Aldrich soon after Thaw found temporary refuge in this state, after having been deported from Canada. Proceedings on the writ were postponed, awaiting the decision of the governor on the matter of extradition.

Governor Felker based his decision on the indictment returned against Thaw in New York county, which charged him with conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum at Matteawan, N. Y., to which he was committed following his trial for the killing of Stanford White. Thaw made his spectacular flight from Matteawan August 17, and a few days later was arrested near Coaticook, Canada.

Thaw's attorneys announced that they would file immediately an amendment to their petition for habeas corpus now pending in the federal court. The original habeas corpus petition was based on the allegation that Thaw had been indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess county grand jury and was suspended pending the governor's decision on the extradition. Because the extradition was granted on account of the New York county indictment, it will be necessary to amend the habeas corpus petition to cover the indictment on which the requisition was granted.

Thaw was not present when Governor Felker announced his decision at the state capital. The governor's audience was composed of newspaper correspondents and the attorneys representing the fugitive and the state of New York. Thaw will remain here in the custody of United States Marshal Nute and Sheriff Drew pending the federal proceedings.

Governor Felker said in his statement in part:

"In the matter of the application for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw, at present within the state of New Hampshire, and an alleged fugitive from justice in the state of New York:

"The sovereign state of New York, by its governor, has demanded of the proper authority of this state the inter-state rendition of Harry K. Thaw. A proper respect for the public interest manifested therein demands that I should state the views which form the basis of my decision.

"By the petition of Governor Glynn and the accompanying papers, it appears that the grand inquest of the county of New York has duly returned into open court an indictment against Mr. Thaw. That is sufficient to warrant the arrest, arraignment and trial of the respondent, if he may be found within the state wherein the indictment is pending. It is furthermore sufficient to establish that Mr. Thaw is, if found in any state or county where such indictment is pending, a fugitive from justice.

"The publication of the federal constitution and acts of Congress enacted to give force and effect thereto, as to be construed by the court of last resort upon such matters, limit me to the consideration of the questions (1) whether the person demanded has been substantially charged with a crime, and, (2) whether he is a fugitive from justice. Such was the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the most recent case wherein a sister state demanded of New Hampshire the interstate rendition of a person within her borders.

"Munsey vs. Clough, 196 U. S. 372 decided in 1905. In that case it was decided by a unanimous court: 'The proceedings in matters of this kind before the governor are summary on their nature. * * * * * * * The person demanded has no constitutional right to be heard before the governor on either question, and the statute provides for none. To hold otherwise would, in many cases, render the constitutional provision as well as the statute passed to carry it out wholly useless.'

"I have nevertheless, owing to the urgency of the demands of his counsel, men in whose integrity I have confidence and for whose opinions I deep respect, given Mr. Thaw the fullest possible opportunity for the expression of their views. With profound respect, therefore, I am unable to view my duty in the premises as including an investigation of Mr. Thaw's mental condition or of the counsel of the state of New York, or the probable guilt or innocence of the accused. To do so would hardly be consistent with the mendatory provision of the constitution that a person charged in any state with treason, felony or any other crime, who shall be found in another state, 'shall, on the demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up.' It would furthermore involve an attempted supervision by myself over procedure of courts of criminal jurisdiction of another state in a manner entirely beyond the power of such state to control.

"Such a course would likewise involve an inquiry into the motives of the authorities of the demanding state in making the request. Any one of these would manifestly lead to the virtual suspension and eventual nullification of the provisions of the federal constitution by states otherwise supposed to be subject thereto. I have and I shall continue to assume that the course of the state of New York in its present demand does, and its subsequent conduct with reference to the arraignment and trial of the respondent, on the indictment for which alone the extradition sought is hereby granted, will demonstrate her full appreciation of the dictates of fair play and a righteous and equal administration of justice.

INDIANAPOLIS STREET CARS AGAIN RUNNING.

Start as Usual This Morning and Schedules Nearly Normal.

Settlement Reached Through Governor, Both Sides Claiming Victory.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—For the first time in seven days the people of Indianapolis heard the hum of motors and the clang of the bells of the street cars today, as the service, interrupted by the strike of the employes of the Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Company, was resumed. Before daylight the first car left the barns, as usual before the walkout of the men, and by the time the majority of workers started down town nearly normal schedules were being performed.

The strike was settled late Friday, through the efforts of Governor Samuel N. Ralston. The employes won their demand for arbitration, but nothing is said about recognition of the union in the terms of settlement.

All the men in the employ of the company Friday night, October 31, when the strike was called, and all employes who had been discharged on account of joining the union are to be re-instated by the company with full seniority rights and without prejudice. The company, however, is not compelled to re-instate men who engaged in violence during the strike, but the refused men may appeal to the public utilities commission of Indiana for a hearing.

Disputes and grievances as to wages, hours, conditions and service will be referred to the utilities commission for arbitration if the company and employes fail to reach a mutual agreement within 10 days. The company must take up these grievances with its employes within five days after the resumption of service.

The utilities commission by the terms of settlement, must render a decision, which shall be binding on all parties interested for three years.

In addition to the union officials and the traction company officers, the agreement was signed by Ethelbert Stewart representing the United States government, and Governor Ralston for the state of Indiana.

Both sides claim a victory in the settlement of the strike. The union officials declare that, while they are disappointed in that they did not obtain recognition of the union, they obtained their main contention, which was a demand for arbitration of all disputes between the employes and the company. The railway company asserts that it won in its fight not to recognize the union.

Credit for the settlement of the strike is given to Governor Ralston, who has been untiring in his efforts to bring the company and its employes together.

J. J. Thorpe, representing the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employes, who was one of the leaders, will remain in Indianapolis to try to bring about some agreement between employes and officials of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern Traction Company and the Indiana Union Traction Company. The motormen and conductors employed by these companies went on a strike two months ago, but failed to win the fight. Labor leaders attempted to inject the demands of these men into the settlement of terms made with the local strikers, but Governor Ralston would not allow it.

NO NEWS OF NEGOTIATIONS.

Next Step Dependent of Receipt of Final Answer from Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—No announcements were made at the White House or State Department of negotiations today, as the progress being conducted by Charge O'Shaughnessy and John Lind, in Mexico City, to bring about the retirement of Huerta. Though there have been intimations that Huerta would reject the American demands, the next step is dependent on the receipt of an absolute and final answer. In the meantime diplomatic pressure from many quarters is being brought to bear, with hope for the success of the negotiations.

TO AVOID CONGESTION.

Burleson Requests That Christmas Packages Be Mailed Early.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—"Mail your Christmas parcels early." This notice in big letters will be posted in every postoffice of the country, at the instance of Postmaster General Burleson, who proposes to see that all Christmas parcels shall be delivered on or before Christmas day, if possible.

The first Christmas season of the parcel post system is almost at hand. Officials propose to see that every package shall be handled so there will be no possibility of congestion. They believe they can give the public quick and accurate transportation and delivery, if patrons only will aid by mailing their Christmas parcels early.

LUDWIG III TAKES OATH.

New King of Bavaria Replaces Mad Ruler Otto.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Nov. 8.—Ludwig III, the new king of Bavaria, who replaces the mad King Otto, took the oath today in the throne room of the Palace, with the simple formula prescribed by the Bavarian constitution: "I swear to rule according to the constitution and the imperial law, so help me God and his Holy Scriptures." The new king had previously delivered a short speech, giving his pledge to devote himself to co-operation with the Bavarian Parliament in furthering the cultural and economic progress of Bavaria.

BRICKLEY'S FIELD GOAL ONLY SCORE.

Second Period Ends With the Points Standing 3-0.

Princeton Forces the Play Constantly on Harvard Ground.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Under weather conditions not the best, Harvard and Princeton met this afternoon in their annual football battle. Rain fell quite heavily several times during the forenoon and at 1 o'clock, when the groundkeepers finished removing the straw from the gridiron there was another shower. The few spectators on the field at the time huddled under their umbrellas. The downpour was soon over and things brightened up. Then the crowd came in steady streams and poured into the big enclosure from the four corners of the field.

The first real cheer of the afternoon was brought forth when the Princeton team ran on the field from the southern entrance of the ground. Two minutes later the Harvard squad came through the same entrance and were greeted with cheers.

Princeton won the toss and elected to defend the north goal. Harvard took the kick-off.

Harvard kicked off over the goal line and Princeton ran the ball back 25 yards, Glick carrying the ball. Law immediately punted to Harvard's 30 yard line. Harvard ran it back 8 yards before the Crimson runner was downed. Harvard returned the punt, Captain Baker making a free catch on Princeton's 33-yard line. Law, on the first line-up, instantly returned the ball to the Harvard 37-yard line. The Harvard back almost fumbled the ball.

One line plunge through the centre netted Harvard two yards and Harvard then punted to Baker on Princeton's 27-yard line. Law punted to Harvard's 48-yard line, where Ballin downed Brickley. Harvard here tried the Princeton line, but was able to make only one yard, through Semmons. Hardwick kicked a high spiral, of which Baker made a beautiful catch, and was downed on his own 42-yard line.

Streit plunged through Harvard's right tackle to the 48-yard line, and on the next play the same player made 4 more yards through the same place. Princeton then used Glick for another centre plunge. He made 6 yards, and then 5 more was added. Harvard crumbled under the Princeton attack. On the next play Streit tried to go through centre, but was thrown and the ball was down on Harvard's 38-yard line.

The first forward pass of the game was tried by Princeton. It was a beautiful long throw, but it grounded before a Tiger could put his claws on it. Baker tried for a drop kick from Harvard's 48-yard line, but it was accepted with and the ball fell short of the Harvard goal posts.

Harvard kicked to Princeton's 43-yard line, where Baker was downed. Baker was shot through Harvard's right side for 5 yards. Law punted to Harvard's 25-yard line, where Logan made a fair catch. On a fake formation Hardwick made 10 yards around Princeton's right side. On the last scrimmage Sies was injured and Lamberton took his place at right end.

Hardwick kicked out of bounds to Baker, on Princeton's 42-yard line. Lamberton returned the ball to Harvard's 22-yard line, where Logan made a free catch. Brickley tried Princeton's centre and made 3 yards, and then Hardwick tried the other side of Princeton's line, and, unable to make any impression, kicked to Princeton's 45-yard line. Baker made 5 yards before he was downed.

Streit went through Harvard's centre for 10 yards. He was again entrusted with the ball, and this time made 5 yards. A third try by the same player netted but 2 yards. Rain began falling heavily again.

After taking the ball on Harvard's 33-yard line Baker tried a field goal from the 41-yard line and again failed. Harvard put the ball in play on her own 20-yard line and Hardwick failed to gain around the Tiger left end, Streit making a fine tackle. A fine plunge gave Harvard but 1 yard and then Hardwick punted to the Princeton 43-yard line Baker making a free catch.

On the next play Streit tried the Crimson centre, but failed to gain. On a fake kick formation Glick made 10 yards around Harvard's left end, making a first down. Streit placed the ball on Harvard's 42-yard line in his favorite hole in Harvard's centre. Another line plunge and the ball was on the Crimson 40-yard line, where it remained when time was called for the end of the first period.

Score—Princeton 0, Harvard 0.

All during the first quarter the play was in Harvard's territory except when the ball was punted back into Princeton's ground. Law out-punted Hardwick.

It was raining hard when the second quarter opened. Glick on the first line-up smashed through the Harvard line for another 10 yards. On the second the same player added 2 more. Streit kept up his consistent work, hammering the Harvard first defense, and put 5 more yards on Princeton's gain. An intricate wing shift did not fool Harvard, though it gained 2 yards, and Princeton lost the ball on downs on Harvard's 19-yard line.

Harvard kicked to mid-field. Law punted to Logan on the Crimson 16-yard line. Off-side play on the part of Princeton cost the Tigers 5 yards. Hardwick punted to Princeton's 45-yard line, where Baker was downed. On a fake formation Princeton was able to make but 1 yard through left tackle. Law's kick was blocked and Harvard recovered the ball on Princeton's 26-yard line.

Harvard lost one yard trying Princeton's centre. Brickley settled back as if for a field goal, but Harvard fooled the Tigers and made a line plunge for two yards. Then Brickley kicked an easy field goal from Princeton's 29-yard line.

Score Harvard 3, Princeton 0.

Baker kicked off for Princeton to Harvard's 60-yard line. Mahan, who

NEW YORK LETTER.

Exclusive Bar for Women of Fashion One of the Latest Innovations.

Smallest Share of Stock—City Leads in School Buildings—Elephant Hides in Plenty.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A bar exclusively for women is one of Gotham's latest innovations—a sure enough bar, too, at which no man can buy unless chaperoned by one of the fair sex. This bar does not cater to women of doubtful class, but is part of one of the swellest cafes in the city whose patrons are of wealth and station. Naturally it is busiest in the afternoon when milady shops and matinees. Many interesting peculiarities are to be noticed in this unique barroom. Of course, it would be odd if madame did not powder her nose and re-adjust her headgear while her cocktail is being served. Women care more about the color than the taste of their drinks. They want them in shades to match the color of their gowns or eyes or some feature, and one even asked for a cocktail to match her soul, which she declared was baby blue. Many order from prescriptions of their own and derive as much delight from naming them as from imbibing. Most of the ladies require straws, even with cocktails, fearing germs. Some even have private glasses reserved. In treating among themselves they have the most out-distanced, and oftimes they want to include the house. Nor has free lunch been overlooked.

Francois, the head barkeep, accords women the palm as mixologists, says men use much language about how this and that should be mixed and served, but are mere bluffers. But the artistic sense inherent in woman extends to their drinks. They cannot be fooled and do not hesitate to send back an order with instructions as to how it should have been prepared.

It remained for New York's busiest of business men to lift the heaviest curse of flat life in New York, said curse consisting of the raucous, scratchy and metallic tones of innumerable phonographs indulging in grand opera, ragtime and yodeling. An official of one of the big trans-Atlantic steamship companies, while endeavoring to soften the tones of an instrument purchased for the entertainment of his children, discovered that a Lilliputian disc attached to the needle near the point and held in place by delicate springs, not only increased the volume of the sound but retained its original purity of tone. When the device was brought to the attention of the scientists, who are laboring with this subject, they became enthusiastic about it and discovered a variety of technical advantages that the inventor himself had not realized. They immediately dubbed the invention the masterphone and summed up their approval in the statement that it makes the phonograph human.

If it accomplishes that feat, or even if it makes it cease to be inhuman, the modest inventor will earn the thanks of a million, more or less, city flat dwellers for having removed one of the prolific causes of crime and insanity, to say nothing of profanity.

The smallest share of stock in the world is the issue of one of the richest and most prosperous of corporations, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. It is certificate No. 1617466 and is drawn for one nine-hundred-and-eighty-three thousand-three-hundred and eighty-third of a hundred-dollar share and is held by a firm of New York brokers. This fractional issue was made necessary in order to keep the stock books in balance, in connection with a stock trade following an increase in the capital stock of one of the segregated Standard Oil companies. The actual value of this fraction of a share is $0.000305, or three hundred and five ten-thousandths of a cent, and the engraved certificate by which it is represented cost not less than 25 cents, nearly 800 times its value.

That New York city leads the world in school building is evidenced by the fact that it has built already two colleges, 17 high schools and 542 lower grade schools and is pushing the construction of others and the planning of still more. Last year 27 schools were built or commenced, and the record for the present year will be about the same. These operations are confined to models of the finest types of architecture and construction, and in many cases the million-dollar mark has been passed in their cost. About 250 men are constantly employed in designing schools to meet the increasing and shifting population. Planning a grammar school takes about six weeks, and a high school several months. Just at present, most of this work is on schools for Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx, owing to their tremendous growth in population.

Not one, but nine elephants on its hands is the plaint of a Fifth Avenue concern in its advertisement of the sale of many articles made from their hides. Probably never before has there been on the market in a single lot the hides of as many elephants killed in this country. The story is that eight of these elephants perished of fright when the big flood overtook them in Peru Indiana, last spring, and at about the same time the ninth backed off a New York ferryboat and was drowned. Those hides weighed about a thousand pounds each and the number, variety and value of the articles that have been produced from them are astonishing.

REJECT COMPENSATION ACT.

Saylesville Workmen Quesiton Constitutionality in Suit for Damages.

The constitutionality of the workmen's compensation act is attacked in motions filed in the superior court in Providence by Attorney John W. Hogan in behalf of John T. Bloomquist of Central Falls and John J. Foley of Lincoln, both of whom were injured at the Glenlyn Dye Works in Saylesville, when an explosion of the fuel economizer happened January 14, 1913, killing and injuring several of their fellow employes.

Frank A. Sayles, owner of the plant where the explosion occurred, elected to take advantage of the provisions of the workmen's compensation act and filed petitions thereunder so that the injured employes would receive compensation as provided by the terms of the law and would be barred from prosecuting suits for damages.

Both Bloomquist and Foley repudiated the compensation act and each filed in the superior court a suit to recover damages. Bloomquist suing for $50,000, and Foley suing for $30,000. Their counsel filed motions to dismiss Mr. Sayles's petition previously filed for the purpose of bringing the cases under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, setting forth grounds upon which that act is claimed to be unconstitutional.

Mr. Hogan moves to dismiss the petition filed by Mr. Sayles under chapter 831 of the Public Laws and says the workmen's compensation act is unconstitutional and void because it violates article 1, section 2, of the constitution of the state of Rhode Island, and because it violates article 14, section 1 of the amendments to the constitution of the United States. It is contended that the statute is discriminatory and not mutual because the right of initiative to come within its terms is not provided for therein to any employe, and that the equal protection of the law is denied to employes.

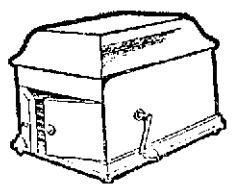

The workmen's compensation act does not equally protect nor pretend to protect the employes or the servants of an employer who elects to come within the provisions of the statute concerning the insurance or compensation features; it unjustly discriminates between the rights and remedies of employes and servants of an employer who elects to come within the insurance and compensation features of the act and the rights and remedies of employes and servants of an employer who does not elect to come within such terms of the act, Mr. Hogan contends.

The statute is coercive in its effect, declares counsel for the injured employes of the Glenlyon Dye Works, and destroys the right of freedom of contract between employer and employe, and it also unjustly discriminates between employers of labor. It furthermore deprives a minor of his property without due process of law and without just and adequate compensation, according to the statements made in the motions to dismiss Mr. Sayles's petition.

This is said to be the first attempt to raise the question of the constitutionality of the workmen's compensation act. According to Mr. Hogan the workings of the statute are generally unsatisfactory among workingmen.

John T. Bloomquist, who filed a suit at law for damages laid at $50,000, was employed to work on pumps, and John F. Foley was called a pipe's helper. Bloomquist received regular wages at the rate of $15.24 a week; Foley's pay was at the rate of $8.56 per week.

MOTHER AND SISTER HEARD.

serious, is he not?" "He is not cheerful in his expression," said witness.

Admiral Walker spoke to witness—not vice versa—about the frequency of Mrs. Walker's children. Witness never said she was preparing a will for her sister.

Captain William McCarty Little was next called, for petitioner. He is a captain in the navy, and is stationed at the War College. Has known the Walker boys two or three years. They are intimate with his grandson. It seems to him that they are very well behaved boys, and that they have shown marked improvement in the last two years. The youngest is nine or ten.

Robert H. P. Thompson, a teacher at Cloyne School testified about the boys. They are extremely well behaved. They impress one immediately as well trained and having the instinct of gentlemen. They seem to have been not strong, physically but they show marked improvement. Boys of that age are not demonstrative, but those come and go together, help each other, and seem fond of each other.

Alexander O' D. Taylor testified. He has known Mrs. Walker and her children; has seen them frequently. The boys are intimate with his son, and in and out of his house several times a week. He considers them some of the best brought-up boys he ever saw. They must have had careful training and seem attached to each other. Last Fourth of July witness spent the day with the Walkers. The daughter is extremely affectionate with her brothers.

At 4:20 the court adjourned to 11 a.m. Monday.

Rice Muffins.

One cupful cold boiled rice, one pint flour, two eggs, one quart of milk, or enough to make a thin batter; one tablespoonful of lard or butter, one teaspoonful salt. Beat hard and bake quickly in hot muffin irons.

Compote of Peaches and Bananas.

Wash half a pound of the finest evaporated peaches and cover with a quart of cold water; let stand over night and set over a slow fire to stew keeping the quantity of juice at the same level in the saucepan. When each half is of a jellylike consistency, lift out with a skimmer, being careful not to break them, and lay in a mold with alternate layers of thinly sliced bananas; add to the juice on the fire some thin strips of the yellow rind of lemon and orange, the juice of one orange and half a lemon and one cupful of sugar; cook 15 minutes, strain and set back on the fire with half a box of gelatine that has soaked in enough cold water to just cover it for half an hour; when this is dissolved strain over the fruit and set away until next day to harden. Serve with cream whipped and sweetened.

WORTH KNOWING.

The bank clearings of the country, which represent financial exchange transactions, amounted last year to more than $170,000,000,000, of which nearly $100,000,000,000 were in New York city.

PERSONALS.

....According to a statement filed with the New Haven town clerk, former President Taft has property valued at about $150,000. He filed an inventory of his estate in response to the demand that lists of securities of persons liable to the tax be submitted for registration.

....President Wilson has accepted honorary membership in the Carabao Society, an organization composed of army officers who served in the Philippines. To a committee representing the society, however, the President expressed regret that he would be unable to attend the societys' annual dinner December 11.

....Alfred Russel Wallace, a leading British scientist, is dead, in his ninety-first year. He had published many works of world-wide reputation on the theory of natural selection, the geographical distribution of animals and other branches of science; was an authority on the land question and a strong advocate of land nationalization. He traveled in every part of the world in pursuit of his studies.

....Congressman A. P. Gardner of Massachusetts, who was defeated for Governor at Tuesday's election has announced that he will resign from Congress to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor again in 1914. He said: "I shall resign from Congress before next summer in order to make a systematic canvass. My campaign will be made squarely on a liberal platform, with a view to aligning the Republican party in this state with the new Republicanism."

....Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes has the reputation of citing more peculiar cases from the old law books than any other justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. The latest he has told from the bench, to the amusement of his associates, was during the argument in a libel suit, in which it was being contended that the declaration was insufficient because the offense was not stated properly. "That leads me to recall a case in the old books," said the justice, "where an indictment set forth that the accused struck a man on the head, splitting the skull until a portion fell down on either shoulder, and the court held the indictment defective because it did not allege that the man was killed."

IN THE OLD PASTURE.

[Harriet Prescott Spofford, in Scribner's.]

Old lilacs dying together, sweetening the purple air,
Wilding in wind and weather of half a hundred years,
A rose whose blossoms have sadly forgotten they once were fair,
While a bird song gushing gladly is the only sound one hears.

The weed grows rank in the hollow—ah, many a bitter leaf!
The seasons follow and follow with idle suns and snows:
And the lonely place is haunted by shades of an ancient grief,
And something of sorrow is chanted on every breeze that blows.

Here on the stone slow sinking in tangles of eager grass
Husband and wife, to my thinking, sat sending their dreams afar,
Or folded close in the gloaming, it may be, lover and lass
Made them an end of roaming and kissed 'neath the evening star.

Here tremors of love and longing, and the laughter close on tears,
Sweet hopes and strange ones thronging, and the sacrament of birth,
Here children with one another played, guarded by tender fears,
To her baby sang the mother the sweetest songs of earth.

A doorstone long forsaken, a lilac thicket, a flower,
And the dewy dawns that waken in the blue and boundless dome
And the mighty stars dark wheeling with wide indifferent power,
And a wistful wanderer feeling the life and lapse of home.

"I suppose," said the employer, "you think you could teach me to run my own business."

"We're all fretted up," remarked Three-Finger Sam, "since Bronco Bob got engaged to the schoolma'am."

"I should think a tender sentiment would improve his disposition."

"His disposition is improved, but it's uncertain. If you don't brag about what a purty gal the schoolma'am is he feels disappointed, and if you brag too much, he gets jealous."—[Washington Star.

STORY OF COLLEGE LIFE.

"Deering at Princeton," by Latta Griswold, a Sequel to "Deering at Deal."

Boys who read the experiences of "Deering at Deal," by Rev. Latta Griswold, will be glad to learn of his further adventures in "Deering at Princeton." In some ways the book is a typical story of college life, with its account of hazing, cane rush, football and other athletics and social activities. What makes it different is the fact that Anthony Deering is an idealist. He is an independent youth and does not always follow the crowd; indeed, the crowd is more apt to follow him. He is very democratic in his ideas, even if he is an aristocrat.

Deering's influence over the students and faculty is amazing. He abhors hazing and in due time it is abolished. He dislikes the club system which prevails at Princeton, because nearly half of the men are unable to "make" the clubs and he thinks this an injustice and hardship which ought not to be allowed. He considers the system undemocratic because it makes divisions in each class along lines of wealth and social position. Although urged to join a club, he refuses on these grounds. He believes there should be no clubs among the Freshmen and Sophomores and that these students should be required to eat in common. He confides his theories to the president of the college and, behold, a few years later underclassmen at Princeton do eat in common in a "noble Gothic hall." Great is the power of Anthony Deering!

Those who have read "Deering at Deal" will meet several of their former acquaintances, such as Reggy Carroll, Sandy McLaren, captain of the football team; Arty Chapin, a disagreeable young rascal who still hates Deering and plays him some mean tricks; Jimmy Lawrence and Kit Wilson, bosom friends of Deering. The experiences which Deering and his friends undergo make an interesting book. Deering's personal qualities bring about unusual situations. The story closes with the last Commencement and Deering's decision to return to teach at Deal.

The book is illustrated by E. C. Caswell and published by the Macmillan Company.

OCCIDENT FLOUR.
Occident Flour costs a little more than other flours. It is made for those people who care enough about bread to notice the difference in different kinds.
The price of Occident Flour is at all times sufficiently high to permit—
—The exclusive use of the choicest selected Northern spring wheat.
—The maintenance of the finest, cleanest, most sanitary and most modern mills in the world.
—The employment of the most extensive purifying processes ever used in flour milling, including the thorough washing of every kernel of wheat before grinding.
—The employment of the most skillful and painstaking millers to maintain the many complicated processes at highest efficiency.
THE OCCIDENT GUARANTEE.
We guarantee the quality not only good, but enough better than other flours to be immediately noticeable—that you can make bread from it, that in purity, whiteness, rich flavor, fine even texture and general goodness is better than the bread you can make from any other flour.

THE NEWS IN PROVIDENCE.

The Daily News is on sale in Providence the evening of publication at Union Station.

THE CURRENCY BILL IN THE SENATE.

The President finds that jamming a bill through the Senate is a very different thing from jamming it through the House. The latter is accustomed to party pressure and coercive measures to secure action. The Senate is the smaller and more independent body, and the whip cannot be cracked very successfully in the north end of the capitol.

The latest development is a curious one. It shows the Republicans preparing a bill which if passed will be charged to or credited to the Democratic party, which controls both branches of Congress. By a vote of 7 to 5 the committee having charge of the bill has adopted a radical change, providing that the capital of the regional reserve banks shall be owned by the public which probably means that the public shall be invited to buy the shares of the capital stock—and putting the government in direct control of these reserve banks.

By a most ingenious paradox the majority of the committee is made up of the minority of the Senate. The committee consist of two Democrats and five Republicans. The Republican minority with two Democrats fastened this amendment on the bill. What is in Senate, and what is the President going to do about it? Of course the Senate may reject the amendment put on by the committee. The President desires a Democratic bill, and if the bill is not Democratic it is not very likely to go through the House. Of course there is talk about a caucus. It may advise—it is not very likely to control—the Democratic Senators. The Democratic majority in the Senate is not over six, several of them are not too tractable and several do not like the bill the House passed under orders from the White House countersigned by the Department of State.

The amendment and the complication caused by a Republican amendment of a Democratic bill are likely to delay the passage of the measure. We are now within about three weeks of the meeting of the regular session of Congress and the enactment of a currency law looks farther off than it did when the Wilson and Bryan pressure forced the bill through an unwilling House.

POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE ELECTIONS.

No one will grudge the President the smile which overspread his face as he read the election returns from his own state, but the national significance of Tuesday's elections is not very great. What there is of it is more encouraging to the Democrats than to the Republicans, but there is really very little of it.

In New Jersey there is no doubt that the vote is an expression of confidence in the President. He made a determined and successful fight against the machine politicians and the predatory elements in his party, and Governor Fielder, who stood with him, continued the struggle for better government and has been elected by more than 50,000 majority. The President's personality and the work which he did while governor counted heavily and it is not unreasonable to regard the result as a victory for the President more than for Fielder.

In Massachusetts the election of a Democratic governor was due, like the election of a Democratic President a year ago, to the division of the Republicans. Of course that is significant in a sense but it does not prove a growth of Democratic sentiment. It is likely to give Democratic victories as long as the division shall continue, but at any time the Republicans and Progressives may reunite and nobody last year nor this has there been any evidence of an increase in the Democratic party.

The popular election of a Democratic Senator in Maryland is not significant. The state is generally Democratic and the vacancy to be filled was caused by the death of a Democratic Senator. The Philadelphia and New York elections have little or no real political meaning. In New York the Democratic organization was heavily beaten, but the mayor-elect is a Democrat whom the President had appointed collector of the port. Philadelphia is an overwhelmingly Republican city. The election there and in Pittsburgh encourages Senator Penrose to hope for re-election and the recovery of the bossship of the Republican party, but the fight is really between the Penrose followers and the adherents of Flinn.

WALKING FOR EXERCISE.

The fact that walking is one of the most healthful of exercises and is not common to the extent it should be is coming to be recognized by many people, even though automobiles and trolley cars have made it so easy to ride, and so tempting even if one has the inclination to walk. By these conveyances one can be whirled to his destination in such a rapid manner and at such a saving of time that the need of exercising the muscles is forgotten in the thought of easy transportation. Still, people are awaking to the fact that they are not having the amount of exercise they need and in these days of late autumn we hear of the organization of walking clubs. Members pledge themselves to walk togther if it can be so arranged, at least once a week, with some definite place to visit and to take daily walks by themselves, even if they are not very long, whenever they can snatch a little time. The days are so full of pleasure and duties that often it is hard to find time for the regular walk, but once the habit has been formed many of the so-called pleasures are willingly given up and only the most pressing duties are allowed to interfere with it.

Walking is rightly admitted to be one of the most beneficial of all the forms of exercise, to bring strength and health, and it is one in which all can indulge, regardless of expense. There is no price asked and no money to be paid for the privilege, as the streets, the high roads and the by-paths are ours for the taking. Not only are our muscles made strong and hardy by the exercise, but we are breathing the fresh air at every step and at the same time keeping our eyes open and our senses keenly alert to everything, so that nothing may escape notice. The kingdoms of earth and of air are ours, and if we are fully alive to the benefits and the good times gained by these walks abroad we need not envy our neighbor or our friend if he passes in the most luxurious automobile or carriage.

If more people would take up this form of exercise and organize and join walking clubs there would be fewer cases of nervous wreck and the sanitariums would have many vacant rooms. It is a wise person who decides to join a walking club or tries to devote a portion of the day, even if a small part, to a walk. He is doing much toward maintaining good health, gaining strength and being stimulated and invigorated as he could be in no other manner, no matter how much money be spent or how much time he devoted. A little time and no expense is cheap enough for health and strength and a cheerful and optimistic outlook on life. The more walking clubs organized, whether this autumn or at any other time, the better it will be for the people of the community where they exist.

Sir George Parish, editor of the London Statist, who is in Mexico studying the situation, rubles to his paper: "All friends of Mexico should use their influence with General Huerta to induce him to accede to the requirements of the government of the United States. If no agreement is reached trouble is inevitable. If the Mexican question is peacefully settled America is likely to maintain a high degree of prosperity." But will Huerta agree?

Here's a new thing in the way of swindle. A Kansas City woman has been sentenced to a term of 18 months in the federal prison on a charge of using the mails to defraud. According to the testimony she fooled many men in central Western states by promising to marry them and then obtaining their subscriptions to bogus business investments.

Rain and cold frost having been responsible for a loss of between $500,000 and $1,000,000 to the potato growers of Maine, the prices of the tubers have already begun to ascend. The supply, it is said, will be much smaller and the price much higher than was expected early in the season.

Richard Croker, former Tammany chieftain, and a successful one at that, refuses to express an opinion regarding the defeat in New York. He says he is out of politics for all time, will never have any more to do with them, and has no interest whatever in the future of Tammany Hall.

Though there has been another shift in the line-up of forces in the Senate committee on the administration's currency bill, neither side has yet struck a touchdown and the goal is still far from being in sight. The score to date is a 0 to 0 tie.

It looks like serious trouble in Mexico, with the United States playing a prominent part. Is it to be another case like that of Cuba, with this country forcing a settlement of affairs by war measures?

The college football games are increasing in interest as the big teams meet in the Varsity games. The season lasts only two weeks longer.

FATHER OF APPENDICITIS.

The Late Dr. Charles McBurney Contributed Much to Medical Science.

Dr. Charles McBurney, whose death is announced, had already acquired a considerable reputation as a skilful surgeon when, in 1889, he published an essay on "Experience with Operative Interference in Cases of Disease of the Vermiform Appendix." The essay brought him recognition from the whole world, and for many years his colleagues jocularly called him the "Father of Appendicitis." His essay created the first general recognition of the disease, establishing a means of diagnosis and a character of treatment, and gave to America admitted priority and pre-eminence in that treatment. The prominence which he gave to the symptoms of localized tenderness, now universally known as "McBurney's point," brought a ready means of diagnosis, and undoubtedly led to the saving of thousands of lives.

His later contributions to medical science included the introduction of the first effective operation for the relief of hernia, a new method of operation for biliary calculi, and a revolutionary change in the method of treating certain dislocations of the humerus. He was a pioneer in insisting upon aseptic surgery, and he developed a great part of the aseptic operative technique which soon became a matter of course in all operating rooms.

Dr. McBurney was born at Roxbury, Mass., 65 years ago, and was a graduate of Harvard College and of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York. During his professional life he was connected as visiting or consulting surgeon with many New York hospitals, including St. Luke's, Bellevue, Roosevelt, Presbyterian and St. Mark's. For a while he was professor of clinical surgery at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and was a member of numerous surgical societies, both in this country and in Europe.

When President McKinley was shot at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1901, Dr. McBurney was called as consulting surgeon.

SCARCITY OF GOLD AND SILVER IN MEXICO.

As a sequel to General Huerta's decree making bank notes legal tender, foreign residents and Mexicans alike have been ransacking Mexico City for silver money, but at the banks it was with difficulty that change could be procured for more than five-peso notes. Business men are alarmed, fearing that there will soon be so great a shortage of metal currency that it will interfere seriously with the transaction of business. The rate of exchange has increased only slightly, the banks selling limited amounts at 200 pesos for one hundred dollars gold. Applications for large amounts are usually refused.

Terms of Contract With Fabre Line to Land Passengers in Providence.

Several Changes Among Pastors of the State—School Eligible List Abolished.

The State Harbor Improvement Commission announces the terms of a contract signed with the Fabre line for the use of a portion of the state pier at the foot of Allen's avenue. Under this agreement the steamship company is to maintain a regular passenger and freight service to the state dock for six years from next April, with a further period of four years named in the renewal clause. The company is to have the preferential, but not the exclusive, use of the southerly side of the dock, but when not in actual use by the Fabre line, this side may be assigned by the state to any other parties desiring to use it. Such other use must not conflict with its use, however, by the Fabre line. Until April 15, 1914, the state is to give the Fabre line "free wharfage," at the state dock, commencing December 15, or thereabouts. The steamship company agrees to dock all its boats at the state pier. The commission agrees to furnish temporary accomodations until the permanent sheds are completed, which is expected to be April 15, 1914. The commission pledges itself to work for a 30-foot channel, and to keep the slips alongside the dock dredged to the same depth as is the channel leading thereto.

The joint special committee of the Providence common council, which for several months past has been studying the advisability of establishing a retail public market near the centre of the city, will, it is understood, recommend the carrying out of the project in its report to the council December 1. Members of the committee are not yet ready absolutely to confirm this statement, but admit that a report of a favorable nature will undoubtedly be made. They say, also, that they will probably urge immediate action on the project by the city council. Individual members do not hesitate to say that they are in favor of the municipal market scheme, and they say the matter of the location of the proposed structure is the greatest problem to be solved in connection with its projected establishment.

Rev. Dr. Lester Howard, for several years pastor of the Steep Brook, Mass., Christian Church, has resigned and accepted a call to the Congregational church at Chepachet. He was received into the Congregational denomination by the mission board of the Rhode Island Congregationalists, the now pastorate being a mission church. Rev. Dr. Howard was one of the most scholarly preachers in the Christian denomination in the East. For many years he was a teacher in the denomination's Biblical school at Stanfordville, N. Y., since removed to Defiance, Ohio. There he imparted a knowledge of theology to scores of young ministers. He has been in the Christian ministry many years.

Rev. Frank I. Hanscom, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Providence, has received a call from the Lewis Avenue Congregational Church of Brooklyn. This is one of the largest churches in the city, having a membership of 1,000, and its pastor, Dr. Robert J. Kent, retired recently, after 25 years' service, as pastor emeritus. Rev. Mr. Hanscom has been pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church since January, 1911, and is president of the Providence Ministers' Union. He started life as a mechanical engineer, but after two years of successful work in New York entered Union Theological Seminary. This course was but a reversion back to the traditions of his family, as his ancestry bears the name of many preachers of the gospel.

Rev. Charles Allen Fisher, for the past four years pastor at the Second Presbyterian Church, Oneseville, has been called to the First Presbyterian Church in Worcester. He went to Olneyville from New Jersey to fill the vacancy at the Harris Avenue church caused by the death of its pastor, Rev. John J. Hall.

After a long and heated debate, marked by considerable feeling on both sides, the Providence school committee passed by a narrow margin an amendment to the by-laws, abolishing the eligible list and giving the superintendent of schools authority to appoint teachers without restriction. In the course of the discussion which attended the passage of the amendment, Henry Marsh, Jr., made the charge that committeemen had used their membership in that body as a club over the head of the superintendent to secure the appointment of teachers, to the detriment of the department.

The State Board of Education at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, unanimously approved the report of Miss Clara E. Craig, who was sent to Italy early in the year to study the Montessori system of child training with a view to its possible adoption in Rhode Island. In expressing its unqualified approval of Miss Craig's recommendations, the board voted to test the educational worth of the system at the State Normal School during the present school year. The results of the trial will determine whether the method will be more widely applied next year. Miss Craig's report was the first which she has submitted since her return from abroad, where she spent four months in the training class conducted by Dr. Maria Montessori. The complete results of the course, as viewed from the angle of Rhode Island education, are embodied in the report. In urging that the system be given a trial in this State, Miss Craig declared that the method, in view of its merits and evident results, could not be ignored and must be considered. She volunteered to supervise the experiment at the Normal school and this offer, with her other recommendations, was accepted.

Members of the Village Welfare League of Wickford, meeting at an informal reception to Congressman Peter G. Gerry urged him to use his influence in securing from Congress an appropriation for the dredging of Wickford harbor. Congressman Gerry made his visit to Wickford in connection with a tour of the Second district, for the purpose of meeting his constituents. He was greeted on his arrival by more than 100 voters of the village with whom he discussed local problems. The request for action by Congress in the interests of deeper waterways was the second received by the Congressman within the past few days. During a visit to Wakefield on the preceding evening the voters of North Kingston presented a petition asking for the completion of the Point Judith harbor of refuge and the channel to the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell L. Williams of Bristol have arrived home, from a trip through every state in the Union and also a visit to Mexico, in their automobile. They left May 27, 1912, and have ridden 24,775 miles. From Bristol they went to Denver, Col., and then to the Pacific coast where they spent five months in California. Later they went to the Gulf of Mexico and through the Southern states, working their way north again through the Eastern states. A number of interesting experiences were encountered on the long trip, but Mr and Mrs. Williams had little trouble with the car. They believe it is the only trip made through every state in the Union with one car. Both are in fine health and enjoyed themselves immensely.

Mayor Gainer of Providence has appointed Joseph W. Hudson and Harry T. Daniels delegates to represent the city at the Atlantic Deeper Waterways convention, to be held in Jacksonville, Florida, Nov. 18 to 21, in place of George H. Holmes and James H. Hurley, who have notified the mayor that they would be unable to attend.

WIN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Pawtucket Football Team Defeats Technical of Providence.

The Pawtucket High School football team won the championship of the Rhode Island Interscholastic Football League, Friday, defeating the Technical High School of Providence, 27 to 7. The Providence Journal says: "The Pawtucket players deserved to win. They not only played a superior game but showed better form than any team from the school has displayed for a long time. They out-punted, out-tackled, out-rushed, out-generalled Technical and took advantage of every slip-up by the manual training boys."

The Classical High School of Providence team defeated the Cranston High School team, 20 to 0.

TO PRESERVE THE FRANKLIN BUST.

The publication of a picture of the bust of Benjamin Franklin in Friday's News has caused one citizen at least to note that this familiar but oft forgotten object is threatened with being taken away. He has thought enough about the subject to suggest that it is a matter for petition or some other action, to secure it a place in the new structure. He says it would be a simple matter to interest our representatives in Congress to save the ancient bit of carving.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—The School Committee will hold its monthly meeting Monday evening.

—Dr. Stewart has gone to Chicago on a brief visit.

—Dr. Henry Beroyd is there from Nor. Y., Pa., guest of Dr. D. P. A. Jeffrey.

—Mrs. I. Townsend Burden is closing her cottage and will leave for New York Sunday.

—The Adams Express Company had two horse cars out this afternoon for New York, with horses for Mr. E. B. McLean, for the horse show.

—Captain W. R. Bettison, coast artillery corps, stationed at Fort Greble, has been ordered to the Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, for treatment.

—Mr. Ara Hildredth and Mr. H. B. Wood are in Providence today, in attendance upon the election of officers by the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance.

—Mr. John F. Freeman, conductor of the Fort Adams band, is on a furlough, traveling in the middle West. He may go as far as Oklahoma before returning to Newport.

—The shipwrecked catboat Vega, owned by Rev. Stanley C. Hughes, which recently filled off the Newport Yacht Club, has been raised by Walter Bliven and has gone into winter quarters.

—The body of John T. Reagan arrived this morning on the early trip of steamer General, accompanied by Mrs. Reagan and her children. The party was met at the dock by a delegation from Newport Lodge of Elks.

—A still alarm was sounded at 4:06 o'clock Friday afternoon for a chimney fire at 108 John street. When Automobile Combination 1 and Hose 8 arrived all danger was over and they had only to return to their stations.

—Though Rev. Joseph Cooper has been steadily improving since his return home, he has not yet recovered sufficient strength to warrant preaching Sunday, and his pulpit at the First Methodist Episcopal Church will be provided for otherwise.

—The dustoline sprinkler was out Friday, giving Washington square, Marlborough street and other roads a fall covering of dustoline, to save the surface during the fall winds, and also to keep down the dust. Broadway has had some dusty sidewalks during recent blows.

—The highway department is putting a sewer in Kay Terrace, the new way off Kay street, east of Ayrault street. The sewer construction men, who have been building the catch basins for the Marchant Street storm sewer, have about finished their work. They will probably be through Monday night.

—A modified cross has been erected on the Hazard Memorial school, in place of the large one which recently fell, one of its arms. The new one is not only less prominent but is very much shorter and particles are not likely to fall from it. The tall staging which was erected for the repairs has been taken down.

—The police have, morning after morning, nothing in the criminal line to report. This morning there seemed to be under investigation a serious case, that of the breaking of glass by boys. One lost child was Friday returned to its home; also one lost bicycle was picked up, but this being an inarticulate object has not been returned.

—The News today was in receipt of one of those anonymous announcements of a marriage which are arranged as jokes, but which may cause a great deal of trouble. Some day it may be the joker who is in trouble. In the present case it was a simple matter to see the young woman who was said to be married, and the announcement was denied.

—The first sale of a portion of the Taggart estate on Broadway is shown today, by the filing of a deed from Lucia M. Phillips and Alice B. T. Rabell to Harry E. Chase, for a lot of land bounded east, 59 feet, on Broadway; south, 100 feet, on Bay View avenue; west 50 feet, and north, 100 feet on other land of grantors. The price named is $3,750.

Senor Conde de San Esteban de Cannoga, second secretary of the Spanish embassy, has returned to Washington for the winter. Senora San Esteban will remain at the Elbridge cottage until next Wednesday, when she will go to Washington.

Miss Esther J. Auchincloss, who has been guest of Mrs. William Grosvenor at "Rosslyn" has returned to New York.

—Messrs. E. S. Peckham and George F. Cozzens, with dogs, guns, etc., left this afternoon for a week's shooting about Miskiana Lodge. To see that they were properly started they were accompanied by a party made up of Postmaster Burlingame and Messrs. Anthony Stewart, Dr. Greene, H. L. Dexter, H. A. Peckam, Clark Burdick, A. B. Commerford and George N. Burkhouse.

—Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. William B. Leeds, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Innes Lehr were among the guests at a dinner and dance given by Mr. Anthony J. Drexel at the Ritz-Carlton, London, Friday for the Grand Duchess Vladimir, Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Cyril Vladimirovich, Grand Duke Boris Vladimirovich and Grand Duke Dimitri Pavlovitch of Russia, the Infante Don Luis of Spain and Prince Christopher of Greece.

GOOD CHOICE FOR THE VOTERS.

Thirty-Eight Council Papers Unevenly Distributed Through the Wards.

Full Ticket From the Fourth Already Filed, But the Others Have Vacancies to Fill.

When the city clerk's office closed this noon there were on file 33 nomination papers. A year ago, on the same date, not one paper had been filed for the city election. A week later, with but four days left, there were just 44 papers filed, 41 for the council, and three for the Board of Aldermen. This year, with 10 days still left, there are one for School Committee, three for aldermen and 34 for council.

The following additional papers have been filed since the last report: Jethro J. Peckham, 33 Gibbs avenue, and Edward J. O'Hara 10 Fir street, Third ward, for three years; John F. Dailey, 23 Annandale road, and John E. Nagle, 342 Spring street, Fourth Ward, three years, both renominations; James Melliff, Coggeshall avenue, re-nominated; Thomas W. Lyons, 26 Dixon street, and James Collins, 8 Potter street, Fifth ward, three years.

The Council nominations are not evenly spread out. There are none from the First ward, 7 from the Second, 5 from the Third, 19 for the three-year term and 1 for the two-year term from the Fourth and 5 from the Fifth. It looks as though there would be no trouble about the voters having a choice.

The two other retiring members of the School Committee, Henry C. Stevens and William W. Covell, will be candidates, so that all four of the present members will again run. In addition it is heard that Miss Margaret La Farge, 10 Sunnyside place, is to be a candidate for the three-year term.

Francis J. Harrington, Merton road, will be a candidate for the one-year term from the Fourth ward. This will give a full ticket from the Fourth already on file, when his paper comes in. The other wards, however are short. The First has 14, the Second 15, and the Third 15 vacancies to fill, each having vacancies in addition to the regular 13 who retire.

In the Fourth ward it is reported that John P. Casey, Nicholas E. Lwyer and Dr. M. F. Wheatland will not be candidates for re-election. Mr. Casey will, it is stated, run for alderman and Dr. Wheatland thinks he is so often compelled to be absent that he will not run. However, there will be no lack of candidates in this ward. There are 11 papers in for councilmen who are running again, and nine of these are from the Fourth ward.

The coming week will see the two party caucuses for the election of members of the city committees and the nomination of moderators and clerks. Then the following week will come other dates of importance to those interested in the election. Thursday, the twentieth, is the day of the semi-final canvass; also the time for the appointment of supervisors and the fixing of the polling places. It is also the last day for filing nomination papers, 12 days before the election, and the last for filing naturalization papers. Tuesday, the twenty-fifth, is the last day for paying personal property taxes to qualify for voting; also the date when the warrant is posted. Wednesday, the twenty-sixth, is the date of the last canvass of the voting lists. On the twenty-eighth the sample ballots will be posted. Tuesday, December 2, comes the voting. Then comes the counting.

"THE DAWN OF PLENTY."

Story Unknown to Man Produced in Lecture With Moving Pictures.

The lecture on "The Dawn of Plenty," by Mr. Edwin L. Barker, which has been announced by the Men's League of Emmanuel Church for Monday evening, November 17, at the parish house, had an unusual genesis. About a year ago Mr. Barker was taking luncheon with a friend, when the latter said: "Did it ever occur to you that today bread has become so cheap that restaurants and hotels forget to charge for it? And what a long step this is from the time when bread was a luxury and only the richest could afford it." From this idea Mr. Barker wrote "The Story of Bread," which has been widely circulated and is used as supplementary reading in many of the public schools. Later the idea of a lecture on the subject was worked out, which he called "The Dawn of Plenty."

Having secured the material for the lecture and given it a name, Mr. Barker desired some pictures, and of this part of the enterprise, he says: "We searched high and low, in artists' studios and in dusty garrets. We went out with a camera and took all sorts of scenes. Sometimes a dozen pictures were taken before we got one which seemed just right for the lecture. In taking the moving pictures we traveled several hundred miles and went to a great expense. During rehearsals we often experimented for hours in order to produce a certain effect, which, like as not, the audience never remembers. But all the work was worth while, for in 'The Dawn of Plenty,' we are able to produce a story few people know very much about. Every person who hears the lecture will more truly realize what is meant by 'Give us this day our daily bread.'"

A REAL SURPRISE PARTY.

Friday evening a large surprise party was given in honor of Miss Mary Donnelly at her home on Thames street, by a number of friends, who were well prepared for such an event. She was completely taken by surprise when the gathering invaded her home, but soon found words to express a welcome. Vocal and instrumental music was rendered by Misses Elsie Nicholson, Margaret Nicholson, Amelia Geraghty, Silvia Lavihar, Isabella Geraghty, Gladys Bachelder, Hattie Thompson, Gladys Bachelder, Hattie Devlin, Emma Duvall, Annie Walsh and Mae Sullivan, and Messrs. Stark, Sullivan, Morgan, Allen, White, Shea, Gilroy, Anderson, Cope and Eggleston. There were also games and dancing, an orchestra furnishing the music, and Mr. P. Lynch the prompting. Miss Gertrude West and Mr. Irwin Laidlaw gave several piano selections.

At midnight supper was served, the table decorations being carnations and at its conclusion a cotillion was danced, the favors being pearls. Mrs. Frank A. Donnelly, Mrs. J. Andraon, Mrs. H. C. Brown and Mrs. Nellie Pelton assisted Miss Donnelly in the receiving and entertaining of the guests. During the evening, a flashlight was taken by Mr. S. KeKnschner.

AN ALL-GIRL SHOW.

The Opera House Vaudeville a Woman's Entertainment.

If Mrs. Pankhurst, or any of her followers, should chance to visit the Opera House today, the vaudeville would be likely to please them. It is a woman's entertainment from start to finish. The only man to be seen on the stage is a lonely individual who hoists the curtains to unveil the human statuary, and, as might be expected under the circumstances, he hasn't a word to say. So I comes within one of being an all-girl show. The "Parisian Palace of Art" is an excellent exhibit of statuary with living figures. At the rear of the stage are three curtained openings, which are uncovered in turn, so that the exhibition is continuous. The groups cover a wide range of subjects, in which several women are employed. At the close of the act Friday evening the models came to life and bowed in response to applause.

May Lloyd again met with applause from a well pleased audience. The singing of "Peg O' My Heart" was especially liked, as was evident from the encores which she received after rendering the song in an exceptionally sweet soprano voice. Her costume, which is of the latest Parisian creation, added to the excellence of her turn.

"Dr. Nicholson and the Blue Diamond," a release of the Famous Players Film Company, is a four-part drama which deals with the dark doings of a crook. It is a variation of the Raffles type, which has a plot of power. The finding of an infernal machine, the explosion by the lakeside, and the capture of the hero by the merciless enemies, with several other perilous situations, make the production one to be remembered.

"Girl O' the Woods," a Victor production is the second play in which Florence Lawrence takes part. As a domestic drama, as a struggle of sentiment, it is strong. It is primitive, and its laws and ideas are marched in strong contrast against the modern. Love is the key-note; one has rarely conceived a more delightful image than she is here; first as the barefooted, scurrying youngster with the primitive emotions of love and hate always to the front, and then as a matured woman who has awakened to the higher meaning of "love" and "charity".

Monday and Tuesday Daniel Frohman will present "An Hour Before Dawn," a modern woman detective story, with Laura Sawyer in the leading role. It is a mystery introducing the scientific marvel of the age. "The Fighter of the Plain," by the Bison Company, a two-reel drama, deals with the early West, pioneers and Indians. These head-liners and several other interesting pictures, together with two vaudeville acts, Gladys Wilbur, singing comedienne, and Sylphonis in a musical offering, make a versatile bill.

THE MISSION AT ST. JOSEPH'S.

The mission which the Domiaican Fathers have been conducting at St. Joseph's Church this week will close for the women Sunday and in the evening the men's week will begin. It seems needless to state that the church has been well filled at all the services this week, and it is certain that it will be at the closing service for the women. The missionaries, however, are more concerned with the attendance for the coming week. Will the men attend so that the church is filled at the 5 a. m. mass? is the question. If it is, the mission will be called a success.

TO STOCK STATE STREAMS.

Inland Fisheries Commission to Secure Brown Trout and Bluegills.

The first meeting of the Inland Fisheries Commission, to begin a revision of the fishing laws of Rhode Island, has been held. Inasmuch as it will require legislative action to bring about the desired changes, it is expected that the work will require some months to complete.

The commission voted to secure brown trout for Rhode Island streams, and it was announced that a consignment of bluegills, an extremely popular fish in the Middle West, is expected here within a short time from Pennsylvania. They will be put into the brooks and lakes of this state and are expected to do well in these parts. Arrangements have also been made for a good-sized consignment of trout from the American Fish Culture Company at Caroline. These, too, will be put into the streams.

According to reports of the deputies, 295 lobster licenses have been issued thus far this year. The reports also state that fishermen generally have had one of the most successful seasons in many years.

BOND ISSUE DEFENDED.

The New Haven Railroad Company Answers the Bulkeley Petition.

The Massachusetts Public Service Commission acted within its powers in authorizing the issue by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad of $67,552,000 convertible bonds and 675,520 shares of stock, and its decision is not open to review, is the answer filed by the New Haven company in the supreme court of Massachusetts to the petition brought by ex-Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley of Connecticut, and others, in appealing from the commission's decree.

The executive committee of the railroad company has recommended that the holders of warrants evidencing rights of subscription to convertible debentures of 1913 be permitted to defer the payment of the first instalment thereon to November 26. The committee, in brief, recommended an extension of time from November 15 to November 26, for subscribing to the new $67,552,000 convertible debentures. It was taken for granted that the board would approve the recommendation and that its action would be purely formal. It was assumed that the recommendation of the committee was a precautionary measure, taken because of the opposition to the bond issue, led by ex-Governor Bulkeley.

A delegation of 500 Harvard students was on the Priscilla when it reached here Friday evening. They were accompanying the football team to Princeton, N. J., for the annual Harvard-Princeton game today. They made things lively at the dock and on the boat with their cheers.

City Solicitor Grime of Fall River has given an opinion on the application of the town to have North Tiverton supplied from the water works in Fall River. In his opinion the consent of the reservoir commission and of the riparian owners should first be obtained, and then an enabling act passed by the legislature of Massachusetts which would give Fall River authority to supply other than its own inhabitants.

The Civic League is greatly indebted to Mrs. Debost for an opportunity to give its members and friends the pleasure of hearing her, for the cordial generosity with which she granted its request, and for the sympathetic interest which she has expressed for the objects and work of the League. The "Encore," the story selected by her for the reading Monday afternoon, is a characteristic one, and never fails to command the delighted attention of her audience.

"LAND HUNGER" APPEASED.

The Spanish War a Striking Example of Intervention Proceedings.

Senator Overman's Amendment for Presidential Veto Would be a Slow to Log Rolling.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Critics of President Wilson's declaration that we should not take any more territoy on this continent assert that he had no right to make pledges beyond his own administration. But the President is one who knows pretty well the temper and sentiment of the American people. He knows that if we were as "land hungry" as we were in former days nothing could have pevented a war with Mexico and a spollation of her territory. "Land hunger" for Cuba was behind most of the troubles in that island. Independence from Spanish rule was fostered by the feeling that "Cuba ought to belong to us." The freebooters, buccaneers and adventurous spirits fostered the various revolutions in Cuba which resulted in our intevention. But back of it all was the desire that has ever been present in most minds that Cuba ought to be in the possession of the United States.

But the Spanish war has given us quite a fill. It has appeased the "land hunger" save of those whose interests would be greatly benefited by requisition of a large slice of Mexican territory. President Wilson knows that our people do not want to assimilate any more Spanish Americans. Secretary Root in his famous speech at Rio de Janeiro declared that we did not want a foot of territoy. We did not. After taking Porto Rico, making Cuba a protectorate, getting the best naval territory of that island, seizing a part of Columbia in oder to build the Panama canal, our "land hunger" was appeased.

If Senator Overman's amendment to the constitution of the United States should ever be adopted it would be a blow to log rolling. The North Carolina Senator proposes to allow the President power to veto items in appropiation bills. But Congess will never agree to that. Oftentimes there is included in appropriation bills legislation designed to coerce the executive, and he signs the bill rather than have an extra session of Congress or go through all the forms of waiting for another bill.

Just imagine how many public buildings would be lopped off, how many small river and harbor pevislems would go out and how many little pieces of pesonal legislation in other bills would be dropped out if a President alone were responsible for vetoing certain items. One way in which those bills are passed is because there is a general combination for them.

Senator Bacon was complaining because an important action was taken when there were only a few Senators present. "I do not think," remarked Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, "that Senators who stay at their post of duty ought to be penalized by absenteeism. There is room for Senators to be here," he added and looked about the empty seats. And as there were about 70 vacant chairs everybody had to agree with him.

Enough of Jim Mann's followers "stick around" to force a roll call every day. There are about fourteen who do not like to have their names constantly on the absentee list, and it is expected that they will answer the roll calls now that the elections are over. They have been campaigning in several states.

A paragraph, just as if it were news, appeared in a local paper recently saying that a new appointee found it necessary to rely on subordinates in order to get a grasp of the public business. The appointees of a political character, in which politics or favoritism plays the whole part, are assistants to cabinet officers and heads of bureaus. These men are supposed to know what to do because they have to act. And yet it is the subordinates who really know and upon whom all these officers have to depend for information. For the most part some of the departments would run along smoothly if there were no cabinet officers, assistants nor heads of bureaus.

It might be a good thing if all the officials except cabinet officers were kept in office under civil service regulations save for the fact that many of these employes become barnacles, set in their ways, with an idea that they are the government instead of employes. Changes are necessary in order that new blood, new ideas, progression and better business results may follow. Absolute life tenure in executive positions creates an arrogance which is not beneficial to the public service.

Arthur W. Dunn.

A "CURE"? FOR BALDNESS

The above expression is one which is used frequently in connection with hair preparations. Just exactly what is meant by it in each instance is a question. Baldness is not a disease and hence, does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably to be traced to the dandruff germ and if the condition has become chronic, that is, if there is complete atrophy of the hair follicles, a "cure" is absolutely impossible.

Approaching baldness, seen in falling hair, may always be checked and if the hair follicles are not atrophied the hair may be induced again to grow.

This is accomplished by regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide which cleanses the scalp and kills the dandruff germ. The destruction of the germ does away with the accumulations of scarf skin and thus eliminates the most common enemy to beautiful hair.

Soft, glossy, fluffy hair cannot grow on a scalp infested with dandruff any more than a delicate plant can grow on an ash heap. The scalp must be kept clean and free from dandruff. The best remedy for doing this is Newbro's Herpicide which receives the highest endorsements from professional men, the stage and the best people everywhere.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications obtained at all first-class barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., enclosing 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet.

DAVIS FOR SPEAKER.

Glocester Man Announces Candidacy for Re-Election to Office.

Representative Frank F. Davis of Glocester, Speaker of the house of representatives at the last session of the General Assembly, is a candidate for re-election to that office, according to an announcement made by him. For some months Mr. Davis has maintained an attitude of reticence with regard to the Speakership, declining to state his position in the matter of a re-election, but now he has announced his candidacy, stating that in doing so he believed he was acting for the best interests of his party and for all concerned.

The failure of the special committee apointed to make the laws conform to the biennial election amendment to report fully at the last session left matters in such a condition that a reorganization of the house is necessary at the coming session. Once the laws have been changed, the organization of the house will be for two years and the election of a Speaker will be a biennial matter.

In view of the fact that the evident intent in electing the members of the present house for a two-year term was in part, to avoid the necessity for annual organization, Mr. Davis believes that it is for the best interests of all that he should again preside over the body, the committees of which he appointed at the last session.

Mr. Davis says that if he is re-elected Speaker there will be little change in the house organization as at present constituted, except in such cases as those in which changes are absolutely necessary. There are some vacancies on at least two of the important committees, one on the committee on finance, caused by the death of Representative Clarke of Hopkinton and another on the judiciary committee, caused by the appointment of Representative John J. Richards to the office of United States mashal for the District of Rhode Island.

ON ALL QUESTION ARISNIG.

Bryan Negotiating With Denmark Treaty for Arbitration.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Secretary Bryan announced today that he was negotiating with Denmark a treaty for arbitration of all questions arising, including those of national honor. The negotiations were undertaken at the initiative of Constantin Brun, Danish minister here.

FISHING NOTES.

C. B. Anderson had 60 barrels of codfish today and J. E. Clarke 12 barrels of whiting. Friday the Seaconnet River Oyster Company had 5 barrels of striped bass and 4 of codfish. The Block Island boat brought over 127 barrels of fish, chiefly cod.

Despite the weather man and his predictions it looks pretty bright for another good day for the amateur fisherman Sunday, and if there is not a big change they will be out in boats and along shore. That there is some fishing is shown by a report from the Outer Fountain, where 300 pounds of cod and 200 of tautog were taken in a short time by a small party. It was not the Outer Fountain Club.

BRICKLEY'S FIELD GOAL ONLY SCORE.

Law punted to Logan on Harvard's 25-yard line, and lost 2 yards when he was tackled. Hardwick returned the punt at once to Princeton's 40-yard line, where Baker made a free catch. Then the sun came out and there was a cheer.

Law returned the punt to Harvard's 25-yard line, where Mahan caught the ball and made a beautiful run, aided by splendid interference, to Princeton's 25-yard line. Harvard tried the Princeton line on the left side, without gain. Brickley here stepped back for another try at a field goal, but failed to make the play. He dropkicked the ball from the 31-yard mark. By this time the players were so covered with mud that it was difficult to recognize them. A towel was brought out and the mud was rubbed from the ball.

Law punted out to Mahan, to Harvard's 45-yard mark, Simmons bringing him down. Hardwick made 8 yards around Princeton's left side. Mahan made 1 more yard and then Hardwick made 2 yards, giving Harvard a first down.

Princeton was off side on the next play and was penalized 5 yards, giving the Crimson another first down. The ball was now on Princetons 35-yard line. A centre plunge gave Harvard 5 more yards. At this point F. Tenckman took Steit's place.

Harvard essayed a forward pass, but Law caught it and it was Princeton's ball on her own 16-yard line. Law punted to mid-field, but the Harvard backs misjudged the ball and it rolled to the Crimson 33-yard line before Harvard recovered it. Harvard tried the Princeton line without gain and then Hardwick kicked to Baker on Princeton's 42-yard mark. Law immediately returned the punt to the Crimson 24-yard line. Brickley tried the Princeton line for 1yard and the period ended with the ball on Harvard's 24-yard line.

Score—Harvard 3, Princeton 0.

Although Harvard was out-played in the first period by Princeton, the Cambridge players developed more strength in the second quarter. During the first period the Harvard line melted before the fierce attack of Princeton, gains being made for from 5 to 10 yards through the centre and tackle of the visiting players. In the second period the Harvard men seemed to pull themselves together and took some of the speed and force out of the Princeton attack. The three points scored on Brickley's field goal were made possible by a blocked kick by Law, well down in his own territory. Harvard recovered the ball and it appeared to be a question of a few plays before she would score. Brickley's field goal was an easy one.

CRUISE IN WEST INDIES.

Marines of Atlantic Fleet to Participate in Advance Base Exercises.

It is announced at the Navy Department that upon their return from the present Mediterranean cruise, about December 15, the vessels of the First and Fourth divisions of the Atlantic fleet will disperse to their various home navy yards to remain until after the Chrismas holidays.

Secretary Daniels said that, while details of the subsequent movements of the fleet could not be definitely stated just now, it is planned to have the ships gather in Hampton Roads, or perhaps in New York harbor, soon after New Year's, and prepare for a cruise in the West Indies. All the available marines at the Atlantic coast stations and yards who cannot be accommodated on transport Hancock will be taken to Culebra, off the coast of Porto Rico, and thence to Guantanamo, Cuba.

By direction of Secretary Daniels Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, is preparing a schedule for the advance base exercises to be held in connection with the marine corps early in January. A force of about 2000 marines will leave the Philadelphia navy yard on transports Prairie and Hancock for Culebra, Porto Rico, where they will spend several weeks in the actual operation of the mines, torpedoes and searchlights and other advance base equipment.

The Atlantic fleet will convoy the marine transports to Culebra, after which the battleships will proceed to Guantanamo for the customary winter exercises. On the trip from Philadelphia to Culebra the battleships will take the same precautions as if war had been declared and a hostile fleet were in proximity.

After several months in Porto Rico the bulk of the marines will return to the Philadelphia navy yard. A small detachment, however, may be sent to the Pensacola yard, to be used as a nucleus for the eventual establishment of an advance base outfit on the Gulf coast. Mr. Daniels has decided that the advance base outfit on the Atlantic coast will be retained at Philadelphia, although a similar expeditionary force will be built up at Pensacola. To provide marines for this purpose a gradual reduction has been made in the officers and men of the marine corps in the Philippines.

The joint army and navy manoeuvres arranged for next February, to test the defenses at the Atlantic end of the Panama canal, have been postponed for a year because the coast artillery forts at the Atlantic end of the waterway will not be completed before 1915 and the officials of the War Department suggested to Mr. Daniels that the tests be deferred until the forts were entirely completed.

DEATH OF VIRGIL JACKSON.

The announcement of the death of Virgil Jackson carries memory back to the time when the name of John William Jackson, first class boy, roused the gallery at the Opera House at the reception to the crew of the Monongahela, and at the times when "Sonny" Johnson pitched and "Gilly" caught and George Stevens seemed perennially young, and they played base ball year after year with no signs of lack of interest or of youthful ambition. It was so long ago that the younger generation does not remember, but some do.

PETITION GRANTED FOR EXTRADITION OF THAW.

tion cases, prepared by the Interstate Extradition Conference held in the city of New York in 1887, and recommended to and adopted by the states, and which have been in force ever since, any and all rights of persons who may be taken into custody for purposes of extradition are preserved to their fullest extent, by a provision wherein the officer taking the respondent into custody is commanded to afford the prisoner such opportunity to sue out a writ of habeas corpus as is prescribed by the laws of this state or by the federal law. Such procedure affords Mr. Thaw an ample remedy before a tribunal having jurisdiction of such extraordinary remedies, with the power to issue final process for carrying its judgments into effect."

The governor made public with his statement an 800-word opinion from Attorney General James P. Tuttle, advising him to grant the requisition, on the ground that "by this course any possibility of ultimate error is excluded and all constitutional rights of the individual and all constitutional obligations of the state will each and all be strictly observed and maintained."

At a conference of counsel following the rendering of the governor's decision it was agreed that the status quo shall continue for a week, Thaw remaining here in his present custody, during which time his counsel will prepare their papers for procedure in the United States court. Further developments in the case are not to be expected, therefore, before the last of next week.

Harry K. Thaw, it is believed, will make no comment upon the governor's decision and the probable future course of his case. His mother, however, issued a 500-word statement, in which she said the governor's decision was not a shock to her, although it was a disappointment. Mrs. Thaw concluded: "While disappointed, I am not cast down and shall put my trust in an ever-ruling Providence and in that court which is over the Keystone as well as the Granite state. I look to that court for the tardy righting of an unprecedented wrong, as it is by the mere aberration of the years that this case has been made to appear different."

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper at 70¾, Anaconda 34, Canadian Pacific 223¾, Erie 26¾, Missouri Pacific 27½, New York Central 95¾, Pennsylvania 103¾, Reading 159⅝, Southern Pacific 149⅝, United States Steel 55, United States Steel preferred 104⅞.

10:45—There was only a nominal market when trading began today. The record of the opening transactions revealed no significant changes among the representative stocks, most of which kept within ⅛ of yesterday's close. Discouraged by the irregular halting movement through the week, speculators made no effort to liven the market and the amount of business in the first half hour was insignificant. Some of the less active stocks were heavy. Cotton Oil lost 1¼ and Studebaker preferred and Delaware & Hudson 2. Further heaviness developed in Union Pacific Fours and some other high grade bonds which have shown yielding tendency this week.

Closing—The market closed weak. Opening with some degree of firmness, today's two-hour market soon reversed its course and before the close numerous new low records for the present movement were registered. The decline began with marked heaviness in New Haven and American Telephone, both yielding to lowest prices in their history. The movement gathered force in the final hour, when it embraced other more active issues, including Canadian Pacific and the leaders which fell 1 to 2 points. Lowest quotations were made in the final dealings, to the accompaniment of considerable activity. Bonds were irregular. Money on call nominal. Time loans, firm; 60 days and 90 days 5 @ ¼ per cent; 6 months, 4¾ @ 5. Prime mercantile paper 5½ @ 6 per cent. Sterling exchange, steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83.10 for 60 day bills and at $4.84.80 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.79¾. Bar silver 59. Mexican dollars 46. Government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, irregular. Exchanges, $310,110,941; balances, $16,431,020. For the week 5 days exchanges, $1,821,206,903; balances, $123,344,469.

FAST FOOTBALL EXPECTED.

Attleboro Has a Strong Team to Meet Newport Naval Reserves.

Everything is in readiness for the gridiron battle for supremacy Sunday at Wellington park between the teams representing Attleboro and the Newport Naval Reserves. According to accounts both will be an even matched, and as the two have been athletic rivals in other branches of sport this will be their first appearance against each other on the football field.

In the visitors' back field one face familiar to Newporters will be that of Wahlen, who has been seen here more than once, representing Attleboro in basket ball. The team has been strengthened considerably for this game, with such men as Whitney of Dean Academy, playing in the back field; Harris of Mount College, who has been with both the fastest school-boy players in the Southern states, and the two high school stars, Associate and Johnson, who are no strangers to the chalk lines in this city. With such men as these, there should be some fast football and after the exhibition given by the locals last Sunday it is known what they can do, with the addition of a number of new plays and formations which have been practiced every day this week, and in perfect condition for a hard fought battle.

The Attleboro back field has been announced as follows: Walden and Harris at the half, Whitney at full back, Johnson at quarter. The Reserves will have their regular back field combination composed of Carr at the quarter, Williams and Emmerson at half and Hallow. Adding down the centre with Nolan and Horgan outside the forward passes they are expected to give the visitors much trouble.

He reports an interesting visit.

There was a fair attendance at the quahaug chowder supper, given by Colonel William Barton Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, Friday evening at the home of the vice regent, Mrs. Benjamin C. Sherman. The supper of chowder, rolls, pie, tea and coffee was especially fine. It was under the management of the ways and means committee, Mrs. Albert C. Hall, Mrs. B. C. Mr. James Macy of Laconia, N. H., who made his home with his brother, Rev. Edward Hallet Macy, during the latter's pastorate at the Christian Church in this town, died this week at his brother's home in Laconia. He was not well while living here, which was about six years ago, and from the time of leaving gradually failed, until being almost helpless he was taken to a hospital. His case was found to be incurable, and he was brought back to his brother, who cared for him until the end.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Almy, who had spent most of their life in this town on a farm adjoining "Oakland" on the West Main road and now belonging to that estate, 20 years ago sold it and moved to South Scituate. Recently they were given a surprise party in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage. About 50 were in the company of relatives, neighbors and friends, who carried a purse of gold and a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The visitors were welcomed by their daughters, Mrs. Edna Hall and Mrs. Lewis Clark; their grandson, Earl Clark, and their only son, Mr. George Almy, all of Providence. Rev. George S. The total award under the 25 scholarships is $2,425. Last year, 23, amounting to $1,650, were awarded. Miss Sullivan is a graduate of the Rogers High School and of Wellesley College.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Cornelius Harrington, best known perhaps as "Neely," was found dead this morning just after 8 o'clock, having been dead but a short time. At first it was thought he was drunk, but Officer Watson decided otherwise and Medical Examiner Sherman, who was called, pronounced him dead and gave as the cause acute alcoholism. The body was turned over to Undertaker Cottrell. The deceased in his day had been a fisherless mechanic, able to procure work anywhere and held his own with the best, but he fell away from work and for some time had been failing physically fast, so that the announcement of his sudden passing away was not a surprise to those who saw him recently.

MOTHER AND SISTER HEARD.

Mrs. Chinn and Miss Chinn Testify in the Walker Separation Case.

Evidence Relates Mainly to Home Life and Relations of the Husband and Wife.

In the superior court Friday afternoon, before Judge Stearns, the Walker case went on.

Mr. Harvey offered the legal proof that William H. Crapo, a witness at the last trial, has since deceased, and then read from Mr. Crapo's former testimony. He lived at 574 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, and Mabel Cochrane was at his house from March, 1906, to 1910. Mr. Walker called on her, in her room, several times. Her door was always locked when she received company. Witness was an invalid and his wife took lodgers, keeping a record of them all. Witness knew Mr. Walker as "the doctor." Miss Cochrane called him that, directing witness to "admit the doctor at any time." Witness had about 15 or 17 lodgers at a time. Witness positively identified Mr. Walker. He called in the day time. Miss Cochrane had received Mr. Walker when she was in her night clothing.

Mrs. Virginia S. Chinn, mother of Mrs. Walker, testified. After Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married they lived at her house in Washington the first winter. She has visited the Walkers very seldom. She contributed to their expenses some summers. Mr. Walker never called to see his wife, those summers, and very seldom wrote. The children have had decidedly proper care from their mother, who is devoted to them, and they are very happy. Mrs. Walker has been happy, too. Mr. Walker showed no affection for Mrs. Walker. Witness never knew a more indifferent father; he showed absolutely no interest in them. They feared him—never went near him.

When the children were taken to Brookline, from witness's house, Mrs. Walker was in miserable health. Mr. Walker appeared and said she was going to take them. He asked if their trunks were packed. Mrs. Walker said she was not able to pack the trunks. He said he would do it. Later he came with his father and mother. Admiral Walker stood at the front door, his wife was in the carriage and Mr. Walker came in and took the children —without Mrs. Walker's consent. She was much upset. Mr. Walker did not take his wife out; he was not mindful of her happiness.

Witness saw a letter from Mabel Cochrane—the original letter, Shown exhibit G, witness said it is a copy; she saw the copy made, and went with her daughter to a friend, (Mr. Ross Perry), in consequence.

In cross-examination witness said she has all in her family here. She hired a house here to protect her daughter. She owns a home in Washington and has not given up her residence there. "Do you intend to return there?" asked Mr. Burdick. "If I feel like it," said witness.

Witness has seen Mr. Walker with his family, at times, all through his married life. She went to Charleston, made a week's visit, and brought all four children north with her. She was positive that she never saw the children romp and play with their father. Their fear of their father was not fostered since the separation. Mrs. Walker confided very little in witness, who until 1906 had an invalid mother to care for, and Mrs. Walker kept her own troubles. Witness thought her daughter able to manage her own affairs.

The family was very much stirred up, in Washington, before the children were taken away. The children knew they had to go. Mrs. Walker followed the children just as soon as she could perhaps in 10 days.

Asked as to exhibit G, witness said he did not compare it with the original letter (from Miss Cochrane), but saw Mrs. Walker write this copy. Witness certainly read the original letter. Witness chose the governess whom Miss Cochrane succeeded; did this on Mrs. Walker's request. That governess proved unsatisfactory and was dismissed. Asked if Mr. Walker had supported his family when they were with witness, she said: "Very poorly; he afforded them no indulgences."

Mrs. Chinn said it had not been decided that Mrs. Walker would seek a separation when witness took a house in Newport. Witness had not advised a separation; that was Mrs. Walker's affair. Witness had a strong feeling to take a house where the children might come, a part of the time, to relieve their mother, who was such an invalid. Mrs. Walker told her Mr. Walker had threatened her. The house was taken very hurriedly.

When they saw Mr. Ross Perry he advised that Mr. Walker and Mrs. Walker meet at his office and see if Mr. Walker would not turn over a new leaf. Mrs. Walker was always working for reconciliation. Witness had a house near the Walkers in Brookline and saw them every day. At Atlantic City they were her guests. Mr. Walker coming for four or five days. She saw much of the children when with their father; she never saw any affection manifested between them. She recalls not a single instance when Mr. Walker volunteered to take his wife out for any pleasure; if they went it was at her solicitation. Witness never saw him in a pleasant humor that may be somewhat exaggerated, but it expresses his habit. Witness tried to think he was pleasant, or tried to be, towards her.

Miss Elizabeth Bertha Chinn was next called for petitioner. The Walkers boarded with the Chinns right after their marriage. Witness visited them, one visit being for two months, at Brookline. Made a brief visit to them at Charlestown, a longer one at Portsmouth, and was also at the Training Station. Twice witness and her mother went to Europe, since the Walkers were married. Mr. Walker simply minded his own personal comfort, when in the house. He was not thoughtful for the children; did not bring them presents.

At the time of the birth of one of the children Mrs. Walker was very ill and Mr. Walker had not time to send for the physician. He also said he thought there was no need of it. Witness went out and telephoned and on her bicycle hunted up a trained nurse. Mr. Walker omitted going to his wife's room, when he would be returning to the house. Witness gave instances of his failure to show interest in his wife at other times, and told the incidents of the taking of the children from Washington to Brooklyn.

At the Training Station witness saw Mr. Walker punish one of the children with thongs, leaving marks on the child. Mrs. Walker was affectionate and always went to meet Mr. Walker. He was indifferent to it. She was devoted to the children and they are to her. They are very happy together. The relations of Mr. Walker and witness were very friendly.

In cross-examination witness said she is a resident of Washington—and Newport. The house in Washington is for rent or for sale. It has been in a broker's hands three or four years; they would prefer to sell it.

Asked if the whole trouble was not that Mrs. Walker is fond of society and Mr. Walker is not; witness did not see how anybody could say that. Mrs. Walker liked to go sometimes and witness thought Mr. Walker liked to go out, too.

Witness helped Mrs. Walker move, in Brookline; witness did not select the house. The first house was very small. Children were born. Mr. Walker admitted that the house was too small, and consulted with Mrs. Walker about moving to the second house.

He was very pleasant with witness and she told him if he would only be so with his wife; he said: "Oh, she's so cross." Witness admitted that Mrs. Walker was cross; it was just before the birth of the child and she was suffering a great deal; witness suggested that Mr. Walker might be more pleasant with her.

At one of the summer resorts it was a source of surprise when other wives were together, opening letters from their husbands, that Mrs. Walker was the only one not receiving letters from her husband; she wrote to him. He wrote about once a month. She was devoted to him.

Here witness was interrupted, Mr. Harvey calling Dr. Edward Reynolds of Milton, Mass., practicing in Boston. He has also had hospital practice and belongs to a half-dozen medical societies, having been president of one. He was specialized in diseases of women. Has a private hospital on Dartmouth street, Boston.

He has read Dr. Palmer's testimony. Mr. Harvey repeated it, verbatim; also that of the other physician examining at the same time. Witness asked to be allowed to read the items. He said the question seems to be indefinitely put; he does not know how to interpret the language. From it he could not form any opinion. The court thought there was more evidence given by these doctors and it would take some time to look this up. More was added and witness still said: "No, that is not sufficient." He should wish to know much more before he could form an opinion.

Reading the question again, witness said these conditions could exist in a married woman, who had not had children. Not infrequently (although it is not common) witness has had to have the statement of the person examined in arriving at a right conclusion. Witness disagreed with one of the most important assertions in the evidence of the women physicians. He insisted that no general rule can be laid down; all depends on the individual case.

In cross-examination, (witness said he had 4,000 cases on his books and he could not tell how many more he had treated. He reiterated that it would be much easier to give an opinion after seeing the case than from a hypothetical question formed by a lawyer, which amused everybody, and the court declared a recess, during which other faces appeared until the courtroom seemed an arena for medical experts.

After the recess Dr. Reynolds continued his evidence, showing from his own experience that the commonly accepted idea that an examination easily settles such a matter is altogether wrong.

Miss Chinn then completed her cross-examination. She saw Walker read once for four evenings to the children. He was absolutely indifferent to them. "Mr. Walker has been a very busy man, has he not?" "Not at all," said witness; "he did not take life seriously." "In his demeanor he is very

VINCENT ASTOR ENGAGED.

Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington of Staatsburg the Bride-to-be.

The Young Millionaire's Wedding Expected to Take Place Next Spring.

An Associated Press despatch today states that Mr. Vincent Astor, through his secretary, confirms the announcement of his engagement to Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, of "Hopeland House," Staatsburg, N. Y. The wedding, it is understood, will take place next spring.

Mr. Astor is the only son of the late John Jacob Astor and his first wife, Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, and inherited about $65,000,000 from the estate of his father, who died on the Titanic a year ago last spring. He will be 22 years old this month. The bride-to-be is 20. The Astor country place adjoins that of the Huntingtons at Staatsburg. Mr. Astor spent a portion of the past summer at his Newport estate, "Beechwood," with his mother, and was active in social and sporting circles.

Vincent Astor inherited from his father the lands and personal property at Rhinebeck, the house and personal property at Newport, all pictures statuary, jewelry, wearing apparel, personal effects, yachts and boats, and in addition was made the residuary legatee of the estate, of which the son received fully $55,000,000. He was a student at Harvard College when his father died, and left that institution to manage his vast property.

He has followed his father in making gifts to institutions which the elder Astor supported during his lifetime. These include the prizes for the Astor cup yacht races, held off Newport during the annual cruises of the New York Yacht Club. He also has his father's love for yachting, and was here last summer in steam yacht Noma, having also a number of fast motor boats.

In July last he purchased a large tract of land in Rhinebeck, N. Y., on which he proposed to build a children's home as a memorial to his father. This is to be known as the John Jacob Astor Children's Convalescent Home, and will provide for crippled children between six and 12 years old, who will be given a home as long as their condition demands.

Vincent Astor is a grandson of the late William Astor, a great-grandson of William B. Astor and a great-great-grandson of the original John Jacob Astor, founder of the house in America. His mother was Miss Ava Willing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Willing, who were prominent Philadelphians. The latter was divorced in November, 1909. Vincent Astor has a sister, Miss Alice Astor, who is 12 years old.

Mr. Astor and Miss Huntington have known each other since childhood. Miss Huntington is rather tall, with brown hair and blue eyes. She is the granddaughter of the late William B. Dinsmore, a millionaire resident of Tuxedo. Her mother, who was Miss Helen Gray Dinsmore, is well known in New York, Newport and Tuxedo.
